From the President's Pen

Dear Members,

“Shoot what makes you happy. Shoot what moves you. Shoot what you love. The rest will follow” -David duChemin

During the recent PSSA Congress in Struisbaai, quite a few presenters mentioned the importance of photographing for yourself, so I thought I will list some of them which I gleaned from the internet.

Creative Fulfillment

Personal vision fuels passion. When you shoot for yourself, you're tapping into what excites you—whether it's the texture of a rusted gate or the emotion in a stranger's eyes. It keeps the spark alive. Club assignments can sharpen your skills, but personal projects remind you why you picked up the camera in the first place.

Artistic Identity

Your style deserves space. Clubs often favour certain genres or techniques, but your unique perspective—your edits, your framing, your subjects—is what sets you apart.

Shooting outside the club's expectations lets you experiment, fail, and evolve without judgment.

Mental and Emotional Balance

Avoid burnout. Constantly chasing approval or competition can drain your joy.

Personal photography is a way to reconnect with your own rhythm.

Photography becomes therapy. Whether you're capturing quiet moments or chaotic scenes, shooting for yourself can be grounding and healing.

Legacy and Impact

You're documenting your world. Your personal work reflects your life, your community, your time. That's historically valuable—even if it doesn't win awards.

It inspires others. Authentic work resonates. When you share photos that mean something to you, they often mean something to others too.

When you go out, don't forget to photograph for yourself and have fun.

Warmest regards, Sydney Truter

Sydney Truter (President)

The Poetry of Tulips: A Photobook Journey

There's something both exciting and humbling about gathering photographs into a book. It feels less like placing images on pages and more like weaving a story — a thread that binds light, color, and memory into something lasting.

This month, I've been creating a project close to my heart: The Poetry of Tulips. For years, I've been drawn to their quiet elegance — how a single petal can hold a whisper of light, or how fading blooms carry as much grace as their full blossoms. Choosing which images belong together, which need space to breathe, and how the sequence should flow has been both a challenge and a meditation.

For me, this book is more than a portfolio; it's an invitation to slow down, notice, and find poetry in the fleeting.

Perhaps you too have images sitting quietly on your hard drive, waiting to speak together. Maybe this is your season to give them a home — in a book, a print, or a small collection to share. When our photographs come together, they tell more than our stories; they reveal the way we see the world. With wonder, and always through the lens of love,

Tips for Creating Your Own Photobook.

1. Pick a theme — let a subject or mood guide your story.
2. Curate carefully — fewer, stronger images have more impact.
3. Sequence with flow — arrange like music, with rhythm and pauses.
4. Leave space — white space can be as powerful as photos.
5. Add words lightly — a reflection or quote can deepen the story.

Jay Nabbe

Hi everyone, my name is Jay Nabbe. I was born in The Netherlands and am currently living in Malta. Early last year, I started taking photography seriously as a creative hobby and got my own camera. My friend Nyasha suggested joining clubs and competitions, which have been really helpful in increasing my understanding of photography, improving my photos, and getting to know other photographers.

While I enjoy experimenting with different genres, I fell in love with street photography, which I mostly do when I am out walking with my dog.

Street photography excites me because you never know what you are going to encounter—from scenes to people, and the always-changing light and weather conditions. I love capturing everyday candid moments and locations in different and (hopefully) unique ways. I still have a lot to learn and take inspiration from photography books, other photographers' photos, and judges' or members' comments. I love doing weekly challenges and try to incorporate them into my usual walks. Recently, I have also been doing more street portraits, where I ask a person I encounter if I can take their portrait.

“Street photography excites me because you never know what you’re going to encounter.” -Jay Nabbe

MASTERING LIGHT

Through the Exposure Triangle

“Photography is all about light. Once you understand light, your photography will go to the next level.”
-Antionette Morkel

★ Aperture (f-stop)

Controls depth of field – how much of the image is sharp versus blurred. A wide aperture (f/1.4) creates blurred backgrounds, while a small aperture (f/16) keeps everything in focus..

★ Shutter Speed

Determines how motion is captured. Fast shutter speeds (1/1000s) freeze action, while slow speeds (1/30s or longer) create blur and movement effects.

★ ISO

Adjusts the sensor's sensitivity to light. Lower ISO (100–200) produces cleaner images, while higher ISO (3200+) brightens in low light but adds grain/noise.

★ Manual Mode

In manual mode, you set ISO, aperture, and shutter speed yourself. Use your camera's exposure meter (set to '0') as your guide to achieve the correct balance.

★ Putting it Together

Experiment by photographing the same subject with different settings. Notice how changing one element affects the others and alters the story of the image.

Challenge for Members

Shoot three images of the same subject:

1. One with shallow depth of field (wide aperture)
2. One freezing motion (fast shutter)
3. One with low light with high ISO-note the grain

Inspiration from Matthijs Ravensberg – Bird Photography

Finding beauty in the birds close to home

Photography: Sydney Truter

Last month, Matthijs Ravensberg shared his deep passion for bird photography in an inspiring presentation. His captivating images and thoughtful approach reminded us that you don't have to travel far to capture extraordinary bird photographs — sometimes, the most magical moments are right outside your window.

As Matthijs expressed, patience, observation, and respect for wildlife make all the difference. His talk truly encouraged many of us to pick up our cameras, look a little closer, and celebrate the beauty in our everyday surroundings.

In addition to his presentation, Antionette Morkel has kindly shared a wonderful PDF guide on bird photography — filled with practical tips and insights to help you refine your skills and capture that perfect shot.

A Heartfelt Thank You

Our sincere thanks to Matthijs Ravensberg for his time, generosity, and breathtaking images that continue to inspire our members. Your love for birds and ethical approach to photography remind us all that creativity and care can coexist beautifully behind the lens.

Special appreciation also goes to Antionette Morkel for sharing her knowledge and guide — a valuable resource for anyone wishing to grow their bird photography skills.

Capturing Moments Together: Club Outings at PE Camera Club

Maitland Sunset Shoot

Photography: Melanie Coetzee

One of the most cherished parts of being a member of the Port Elizabeth Camera Club is the chance to join photographic outings with fellow enthusiasts. These casual yet enriching get-togethers usually happen on a Saturday between our monthly meetings and offer more than just an opportunity to take photos.

Our outings are designed to:

- Encourage hands-on practice of photographic techniques in both indoor and outdoor environments.
- Foster connection and camaraderie among members, with time to relax and socialize after each shoot—often over a cup of coffee and Jinty's famous biscuits. Explore unique locations that members may not venture to on their own, from tranquil gardens to bustling markets or rugged coastal scenes.

Each outing is a blend of learning, laughter, and lenswork—a safe space to share knowledge, ask questions, and grow your creative eye in the company of kindred spirits.

Maitland River Sunset Outing

Capturing Beauty Amid the Howling Wind

Despite the howling wind, the Maitland River mouth offered a truly spectacular evening of colour and camaraderie. Thank you to everyone who braved the gusts to join us for this sunset shoot – your enthusiasm and laughter made it an unforgettable outing.

The golden light danced across the waves, painting the sky with fiery hues and soft reflections that made every frame worth capturing. Whether experimenting with long exposures, silhouettes, or simply soaking in the view, the evening reminded us that nature rewards those who show up – wind, sand, and all.

A special thank you to our members for their adventurous spirit and for sharing in another memorable moment behind the lens.

Updated Requirements

Salon Acceptance Reporting & Club Records

Salon Points Allocation

Photovault automatically allocates salon points to members' portfolios as soon as the results are released by the salon host and uploaded to the system. These points are reflected in a member's portfolio, regardless of which club they nominated when entering a salon.

For instance, if a member belongs to multiple clubs and those clubs also use the Photovault Administration System for salon logs, any salon points awarded will appear in all relevant portfolios.

If a member selects the wrong club, or no club at all, resulting in an "Independent" status on the results, the salon acceptances are nonetheless recorded because they are linked to the member's unique Photovault Membership Identity Number.

Changes and Requirements

Effective immediately, members are no longer required to send proof of email results and thumbnails to Sydney. Instead, each member is responsible for keeping their own salon log up to date. This log should include a thumbnail, image title, salon entries, and the salon awards received.

Please remember that:

- An image title cannot be changed once it is entered.
- An image title cannot be reused for different images.
- The title must be the same even if the image is converted to Mono.
- Only 3 salon acceptances/awards will be accepted per image

Importance of Accurate Records

Maintaining accurate salon records is crucial when applying for PSSA Diamond Ratings and FIAP Distinctions. For further details on these awards, please refer to the following links:

<https://pssa.co.za/diamond-ratings-and-salon-honours/>

<https://pssa.co.za/fiap/>

International Salon Results

Members should email their International Salon results to the Club Log Administrator. (Charmaine Joubert).

"Spiral Movement" by Jay Nabbe

Jay says; This photo was taken at the Bramante staircase at the Vatican Museums earlier this year. I needed my 16mm to capture the whole diameter of the staircase. It was done without filters or a tripod. Just by holding my arms outstretched, waiting for an even flow of people all the way down with one individual standing still. It took me about 15 minutes to get how I envisioned it."

This photo was taken in Nashville, Tennessee at a 3 year old birthday party. The little ones were having such fun and this little girl was showing off and loving having her photo taken. I had to change the background as there were other kids in the frame which were distracting.

"When is Daddy Coming Home" by Marise Ferreira

"The image of my granddaughter Emily was captured one afternoon in her lounge. She was looking out toward the school west with the light coming through the window. She seemed deep in thought.
